

Robert Strang

Year of Call: 2003

Robert Strang is an experienced advocate whose practice concentrates in particular on the area of commercial law. He has substantial experience in the litigation of commercial contractual disputes and in business disputes concerning fraud, breach of fiduciary duty and claims under guarantees. His practice also covers property disputes. He is experienced in obtaining interim relief, including urgent injunctions. Robert acts for clients in professional negligence claims, involving solicitors, mortgage brokers and financial advisers (and he is well versed in the FSMA 2000). He is knowledgeable about financial products and markets, having worked in finance himself.

Robert has also developed a practice in Commonwealth constitutional and public law. He has appeared in constitutional appeals, judicial reviews and a variety of other matters before the Privy Council, both on his own and led by senior members of 3 Hare Court and Senior Counsel from Trinidad and Tobago. He has advised on many cases in Trinidad and Tobago and other Commonwealth jurisdictions involving constitutional and public law. For his public law work he has been commended in the Legal 500 2012 for his ability to “marshal complex facts” and to present them “with great clarity”. Before coming to the Bar, Robert spent several years trading government bonds for a large European bank. He followed that by playing a business development role in a mobile internet venture for a major mobile phone company.

PUBLICATIONS AND LECTURES:

Robert has been published in the Solicitors’ Journal and the New Law Journal. He contributes to Chambers bulletins in his core areas of practice.
