

Anna Gatrell

Prior to pupillage, Anna Gatrell studied the Graduate Diploma in Law, achieving a distinction. Alongside this, she volunteered for IPSEA, where she provided representation at Tribunal hearings to help ensure that children and young people were able to access the right education.

Following completion of the Graduate Diploma in Law, Anna worked as a Course Officer for the LLM International Business Law at City, University of London, where she also taught mooting and advocacy skills. Alongside her role at City, she competed in the Willem C Vis Commercial Arbitration Moot for Middle Temple, with the team ranking in the top 10% internationally.

Anna graduated with a degree in History from Merton College, Oxford, where she was also a choral scholar. Following this, she worked at a company in which she was responsible for international sales, client management, and business development.
